PERIODICALS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO BLIND PERSONS

in Canada and the United States

American Foundation for the Blind

1960

FOREWORD

Periodicals in raised print for the blind or in talking book form represent an additional source of reading material for blind persons, supplementary to the books and other printed or recorded matter provided by the federal government through the Library of Congress. This new edition of the compilation Periodicals of Special Interest to Blind Persons is a guide to this additional reading matter. It also lists inkprint publications dealing with work with the blind or furnishing information on specific groups, schools or associations within the field. Twenty-eight of these are published in the United States and two in Canada.

There are eight braille periodicals published in Canada, and there are one hundred and twelve in the United States. Of the latter twenty-eight are devoted to specific subject matters or furnish current news and professional discussions of interest to blind people or to those who work with the blind. Thirty-eight are religious publications; nine are reprints of inkprint current events papers for the grades and high school; thirty-three are special organs for schools, alumni groups, and agencies; and four periodicals are devoted to the deaf-blind, one of which is published in Canada.

Blind readers who prefer New York Point have a choice of two magazines, and Moon readers may receive two periodicals in that type. There are fourteen periodicals published in recorded form at the present time.

The wide circulation of the periodicals published in this country for blind persons and on work with the blind is an indication of their value to the field. The American Foundation for the Blind presents this list as an aid in the selection of the type of publication wanted.
